A WAR REMINISCENCE.

THE SIEGE OF MOBILE—DESTRUCTION OF THE MONITOR MILWAUKEE BY A MAMMOTH TORPEDO—THE STORY TOLD BY A SURVIVOR.

A few weeks since the Gulena (Illinois) Gazette copied our account of the surrender of the rebel General Lee, and in referring to the fact we called attention to the evidence that the Associate Editor of the Gazette who copied the article, proved to be Ensign George W. Perego, an accomplished young officer, who served with us in the West Gulf Squadron. A copy of the Gazette of May 4th has just reached us, containing our paragraph and the following reminiscence of the siege of Mobile, Alabama, by Gossame gentleman, also was a survivor of the ill-fated frigate Milwaukee, which vessel was destroyed by a mammoth torpedo at the close of an engagement with the Spanish Fort near the mouth of Blakely river. The leading character of the narrative must vouch from the charge of egotism in publishing it entire, notwithstanding the plurality per-onal allusions promptly gone-ous remembrance and that noble spirit of comradeship which binds those who have shared together the hardships and perils of war:

A Coincidence.

Readers will remember we published on the 5th of March a very complete account of the surrender of General Lee, including an autograph letter from President Grant. We sent a copy of the paper to the ex-President at Galena, Illinois, his home, which he was revisiting, and yesterday he received a copy of the Galena Gazette of April 28, the anniversary of Appomattox, containing a republication of our entire article. The editor of the Gazette has just published a detailed account of the great historic event from the pen of the Commander of the Rebellion, and he complimentes the accuracy of our statement by presenting it entire—nearly two columns—to the readers of General Grant, as the authentic history of one of the most important events in our national career. By a most singular coincidence the copy of the Gazette came to us bearing on the margin the compliments of the Associate Editor, who proves to be a young gentleman who served as an officer of the United States war vessel under the command of the Editor of this journal in the West Gulf Squadron during the last year of the rebellion. We had lost trace of him since the close of the war, and it is a remarkable circumstance that we should first learn of a former shipmate in a western city, reading a paper published in the old home of General Grant, and containing our own account of the most famous event of the War for the Union.—Bangor (Me.) Whig and Courier.

A Reminiscence.

The above, in kind remembrance of a subordinate by Captain Boutelle, revives the incidents attending our first introduction to that officer and the circumstances which brought it about. On the morning of the 20th of March 1865, the U. S. steamer Milwaukee, iron-clad Monitor together with the sloop of war Octorora, two formidable vessels belonging to the West Gulf Squadron then doing duty in Mobile Bay, were ordered to proceed up the Bay as far as the mouth of the Blakely river, for the purpose of cooperating with Gen. Canby, whose army was environed about Spanish Fort. At 3 o'clock we weighed anchor, and with many misgivings, started upon our mission, which we knew would result in the destruction of our vessels and the possible loss of many lives, as the Bay and the river's mouth had been literally filled with torpedoes by the enemy. The Milwaukee to which we were attached was the leader by a mile, and not until we had reached the mouth of the river and so close to the enemies works that their guns could not be brought to bear upon us, was the anchor ordered dropped by Capt. Jas. H. Gillis, commander of the vessel. The Octorora took up her station about half a mile astern of us, and all day long the shot and shell were buried at us from the 15-inch Columbiads of the Milwaukee and the rifled 100 pounders of the Octorora. The enemy returned the fire, and those of us on deck will never forget the terribleness of the contest. During the afternoon we had succeeded in silencing their water batteries and dismounted a dreaded Dahlgren gun projecting from the parapet of the fort.

THE DESTRUCTION OF THE MILWAUKEE.

At 5 o'clock the sun sank out of sight and thick black clouds sprang up out of the horizon. The light of day began to wane rapidly with the departure of the sun, and signals were run up asking the Flag ship—Admiral Thatcher—to command "Cease Firing and withdraw," proved the doom of the old Milwaukee. At 10 o'clock that fearful night we had weighed anchor, and had run afoul of a mammoth torpedo, (which struck her on the port quarter,) and was on her way to the bottom, frequently to bury in a watery tomb the one hundred and fifty brave sailors who were unconscious below decks, that out from, but little means of escape by bottle-hatches, and immense iron gratings over the companionway and stairways to the hold and engine rooms.

THE TERRIBLE SCENE.

We will not describe the horrors of the scene following the disaster. Many times it has come up before us like a nightmare, and again we have witnessed the struggles for life, the floating to and fro of men and officers on the deck of the sinking vessel, the blanched faces of the sailors dragged from the hold by those of us on deck who had escaped by the help of Providence by yellow the gratings, thus furnishing the means of escape. Anyone who will refresh the story which is but one of the hundreds of terrible scenes that found their origin in the Rebellion. The writer of this in company with a fellow officer named Stoddard, when the deck of the old Milwaukee had become submerged, launched a plank and struck out for the Confederate shore, preferring to end his life in the waters, rather than to be buried in a living grave.

THE RESCUE—SEARCHING FOR THE DEAD.

While struggling for life with the desperation of drowning, we were picked up by the Confederate steamer Elk, which was on her way to the wreck, picking up, we hope, of reaching the shore, had well nigh exhausted itself. When thus rescued, darkness had come, and we could see but little before us, and not a star was visible through the thick mass of clouds that hung in the heavens. The rain descended in torrents, a furious gale came up and tossed about with its load of freight, the little craft, which it was impossible to lay at anchor for the night. Five hours, during which we were many times in danger of going to the bottom, we searched for the fleet, and at one time were hailed and ordered into a schooner bound for the Confederate run Nashville, which lay at the Blakely River, (Mobile) Ala., miles from where the Milwaukee blew up. At daylight we were fast drifting out, within his, we overhauled the U. S. Schooner Nyanza, commanded by Captain Gaw. Boutelle, which vessel, as had others in the fleet, proved her mettle on the night and put all her lights, to avoid an attack from the formidable ram, the Nashville, then lying in Mobile harbor. Willing hands received us on board, and, under the direction of Captain Boutelle, furnished us with food and dry raiment and comfortable hammocks in which to sleep. Just how fortune aided us in getting assignment to duty on board the Nyanza, we have not time nor space to relate. Suffice it to say however, that the remaining days of our service, among the pleasantest of the whole period, were spent under Captain Boutelle, one of the bravest and most efficient officers in the West Gulf Squadron. The "Nyanza" was one of the three vessels that accepted the surrender of the whole Confederate fleet under Commodore Farrand, at Nanuubbba Bluff, twenty-one miles above the mouth of the Tombigbee river. She was the first gunboat sent up the Alabama from Mobile to Montgomery after the capture of that city by Wilson, and was almost the first vessel to cast anchor in Mobile harbor after the evacuation of that city by General Maury.

AFTER TWELVE YEARS.

Scattered to the four winds are her officers and men, while many no doubt sleep the sleep that knows no waking. Twelve years have passed away since the close of the struggle in which the Nyanza bore a gallant part, yet time has effaced from our memory but few of the incidents connected with our brief though pleasant term of service under the gallant and courteous commander, Captain Boutelle.

STATE CONVENTION OF REFORM CLUBS.

The Reform Clubs of Maine will meet in a grand mass Convention, at Dexter, on Wednesday and Thursday, June 6th and 7th.

All the Clubs in Maine are cordially invited to send representatives, and they are each requested to inform the Executive Committee of Dexter Reform Club how many delegates will be in attendance from their respective clubs, as early as the 25th of May instant, in order that ample provision may be made for their entertainment.

As the Reform Clubs of the State have no central organization, it is not known where they are located. Otherwise, invitations would be sent to each of the Clubs direct. As it is they are requested to consider this notice which it is hoped all papers interested in the cause will publish, as a sufficient notice and take measures according ly.

Free entertainment for all representatives from Clubs abroad, and half fare on the Maine Central Railroad.

Information concerning delegates proposing to attend may be sent to Albion P. Fossett, Chairman of Executive Committee of Dexter Reform Club, Dexter, Me.

NEW MAGAZINES

APPLETONS' JOURNAL for June contains several noteworthy papers. "The freshest, perhaps, is an article entitled "The Wai with the Turkomans," which is a racy and highly-enjoyable humorous picture of Oriental manners and Persian warfare, derived from the French of the Comte de Gobineau. This sketch has not only timely interest just now, but at any period its keen satire and racy humor would be highly relished. Eastern affairs secure further attention in an article called The Salehs of the Ottomans, in which the causes that have led to the decline of the Ottoman power are investigated and graphically described. In the way of fiction there are the continuation of Cherry Ripe, a dramatic short story by M. E. W. Sidgwick, called Honor's Slave, in which figure a Russian princess, and English and American characters; and a Philadelphia sketch by Rebecca Harding Davis, called Doctor Pajot, which is very charming. The illustrated article is a picturesque paper on The Harbor and Commerce of New York, with numerous fine engravings. Mr. Towle gives a good paper, based on Mrs Oliphant's Makers of Florence, which he calls the Reign of Poetry. Art, and Eloquence, in Florence. Justina Henri Browne tells in an effective manner the remarkable story of one of the French prisoners of the time of Louis XIV. Mr. Matthews makes the centenary of the comedy, The School for Scandal, the occasion for an entertaining paper on that famous play. Among the poems we find Forty to Twenty; a Drawing-room Drama, by Kate Field, which is, we believe, that lady's first appearance in verse. Under the head of Collectanea, a cluster of good, short papers on various topics is given; and the editorial departments maintain their usual standard.

THE GALAXY for June opens with a striking poem by Miss Emma Lazarus, a new literary light of much promise, followed by the closing chapters of Miss Hopkins's pleasing sketch, entitled A Progressive Baby. Next comes a valuable article on the Militia Service of the United States, discussing its history, its uses and abuses, and suggesting measures for its improvement and development. The article, coming as it does from a thoughtful and observing writer of long military experience, during many years of which he was an officer of the New York Seventh Regiment, will carry great weight. Henry James Jr. contributes an admirable sketch of the romantic life and writings of Alfred de Musset, one of the most remarkable of French poets.

Some of the tricks and manners of dishonest life insurance companies are exposed by an unknown writer in a vigorous and daring article which follows, after which we are led away from the haunts of men to green fields and purling brooks, and invited to share with an enthusiastic sportsman the fascinations of angling for salmon. The Hon. J. M. Carey, a statesman and political economist of high standing, in the South, contributes an article upon the abuses of the Civil Service system and the unhappy results of frequent rotation in office, evils which have been growing alarmingly since the days of General Jackson. Richard Grant White follows with an quaint and descriptive essay upon modern music of the various schools, which is certain to create a sensation among the devotees of the art, now most in vogue. The number contains two short stories of uncommon excellence, Thy Kosem in Herzal, by Miss Clara Dolliver, and Fulton among Thieves, by a new writer, also two or three very good poems, and the usual entertaining and valuable departments of science, literature, and current gossip.

To Subscribers. Knowing the field only through newspapers, we should be sent but in rows three or three and a half feet apart, and about eighteen inches apart in the rows. Set them as soon as the ground becomes dry, but far from the first of May. Mark out the ground when well fertilized with fine stable dung and properly prepared, and drop the plants along rows as near eighteen inches apart as possible, and set them nearly as deep as dropped, so that the roots will not be long exposed to the sun; if the weather be cloudy that roots should be opened out, as set, and pressed down the soil upon them with your foot by both sides of the plants. A good deal of care is to have a plot of land ready for redeemers the ground to be planted, and to set with stakes at each end, so that the plants can be made rapidly by placing the back of a against the line, pressing it down with your foot, and by one operation throw out sufficient earth to give room for a plant. Or the marking may be done with a common marker, if you have one that marks not over three and a half feet apart; and the holes may be made with a spade or hoe whichever way you can make them the most rapidly. The plants should be watered soon after being set, unless the weather be cloudy or the ground quite moist. When stable manure cannot be obtained, superphosphate of lime may be used to advantage, if it be pure. Five hundred pounds per acre will suffice, spread broadcast and harrowed in, then sprinkle a little in each hole as the plants are set. Ashes are also a good fertilizer. Or, in place of ashes, muriate of potash will do as well. It contains fifty per cent. of pure potash, and is now quoted at $3 to $3.50 per 100 pounds, and less by the ton. The following formula is said to produce very large crops of strawberries: "One quart dilute of potash, one do. glauber salt, and one do. of sal soda," all to be dissolved in water, one barrel for three pounds of the mixture, which is enough for a bed forty or fifty feet square, to be applied early in the season from a water pail several times till the fruit sets. I have no doubt of this fertilizer being good, because potash is always valuable for any crop. The fruit of plants set this spring will be of no value till next season, when the largest crop may be expected that they will produce, not less than 100 bushels per acre, if the variety grows be good, and if the soil be rich and well cultivated. The Wilson is still considered the best market berry by many, but the Charles Downing is begining to take its place, it being nearly as prolific and the quality of the fruit much better. One hundred dollars per acre is often cleared on this crop over all expenses.—E. Monroe in N. Y. Sun.

STATE NEWS.

Aroostook

An article in the Aroostook shows that the people of New Sweden are very desirous of educating their children, and their schools the past year have been well conducted.

Cumberland.

The Press says that Mrs. Charles O. Allen, born at Bridgton met with a severe and nearly fatal accident recently, by her horse running away and throwing her out of the carriage.

Franklin

Chisolm's Chronicle says that the dead body found in the river at Jay has not been identified yet. Rumor says that there was a young man last fall at Canton Point, by the name of Smith, who was heard to say that he had no home nor friends on Lowell and he was and thought he should drown himself. He has not been seen since.

Kennebec

The Journal says that the channel of the factory at the dam, Augusta, employs a number of men, and is filling up at a tremendous amount of work.

Lincoln.

The News says that schooners Adelphi, Capt. Oliver Reed, and Astrandia, Capt. Wheeler, were broken open and robbed on Sunday night of provisions and money, to the value of more than one hundred dollars. Business is brisk.

Oxford

The News says that Rev. Cyrus Walker in Denmark, mostly lost his barn.

York.

The loss by fire, Friday, to the York Manufacturing Company, Saco, will probably reach $30,000. Eight Engine's breakers and firemen and two of the Cutts mills were nearly ruined. The company have already contracted for lumber to rebuild. The brick walls are uninjured.

The Journal says that Tuesday a three year old child of Thomas Brand, living on High street, Saco, fell from a window in the second story of a house. A gentleman says the little one fell and ran forward to raise it, when the child got upon its feet and walked off. It sat down a little lame.

RECONCILING.

[From the Chicago Inter-Ocean.]

Our heart is filled with gratitude. We are tranquil. The wild and boisterous passions engendered by our great civil strife have subsided, and in their stead there reigns a holy calm.

Yesterday it was not so. Rude passion swayed us, and we grasped our scimetars with deadly intent. To-day olive twigs adorn our hat, and olive oil floats greasily on the surface of our cup of peace.

We have taken one more step in the highway of conciliation. We have conceded another point. It beats all how good it makes a man feel to give himself away in this great cause and in this unselfish manner.

No sincere advocate of reconciliation can have failed to notice that our Southern policy has lacked one essential element of success. Up to yesterday the army and navy had not been employed to wait upon and afford amusement to our White Leagues and Ku-klux brethren of the South. This was a constant thorn in the flesh to these generous and chivalrous people. How could it be expected that they would feel toward us that respect and friendship so desirable when the proof of our gratitude was withheld? It could not be, and so we chronicle with a sort of wild exultation the fact that the last bar to enthusiastic love has been let down, and that the two sections are now clasped in a passionate embrace.

Note the demonstrations.

"CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 10.—The exercises of laying the corner-stone of the monument dedicated to Confederate dead were conducted with Masonic rites. A detachment of United States troops, headed by the Second Infantry band, participated."

"NEW ORLEANS, La., May 10.—In response to the proclamation of Governor Nicholls the day was celebrated by services in the churches and a military display. The Cotton Exchange and banks closed. Included in the military procession were seven companies of the First Alabama Infantry of Mobile, preceded by the Fluriel-th Infantry band, 200 United States infantry, and a detachment of Marines who volunteered their services as escort in recognition of the visiting soldiery."

Indeed, now this love begins to look like peace. To be sure, the "colored troops" were not to be found in the procession, and, crouched and shivering in the background, they marred somewhat the otherwise beautiful perspective; but what of that? It is not them that we seek to win over. They have always been conciliated, what we want is to get the good opinion of their masters, and obtain, if possible, the consent of the latter to let the Government still exist for a brief period.

We hope these exhibitions of concession will mollify the hearts of our dear brethren but if not, let the United States troops be ordered to fire a volley or two at a crowd of negroes, and assist, if necessary, at one or two hysterical massacres then, we feel sure, the cementing business will be complete. This, at least, so far as Mississippi and Louisiana are concerned. In South Carolina, we grieve to say, the delay in ordering the discharge of the Hamburg murderers is delaying matters, and having a dampening effect on reconciliation. Let this be looked to at once.

AMNESTY FOR WADE HAMPTON'S BUTCHERS.

"The anti-Hayes organs now have no reason to treat the President with justice by candidly admitting that he has notified Governor Hampton of South Carolina that the trial of the Ellenton murderers is going on in the United States courts. A few weeks ago they predicted that the President would comply with the request of the Legislature to discontinue the suits. Chief Justice Waite will preside at the trials."—Boston Journal, Monday, May 14.

Argument with the Journal has for some time ceased to be necessary and application of epithets unimportant. We need simply present to our readers the following special despatch from the N. Y. Herald's Bull-Cub special at Columbia, giving the text of the correspondence between Wade Hampton and the President, and the cavilling comments of the writer upon the gracious course adopted by the President:

COLUMBIA, May 14, 1877. The following speaks for itself:

COLUMBIA, May 12, 1877. The following official communication from Governor Hampton was published in the House of Representatives to-day:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Columbia, May 12, 1877.

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives:—Yesterday I transmitted to His Excellency the President of the United States the concurrent resolution adopted by the General Assembly invoking Executive clemency, and I now have the honor to communicate his reply.

WADE HAMPTON, Governor.

The reply is as follows:

WASHINGTON, May 12, 1877.

To Gov. Wade Hampton:—I am informed by the Attorney General that he has instructed the District Attorney of South Carolina to prepare for trial only three indictments in the Ellenton case and to notify the parties in all other cases that they need not prepare for trial. It is possible that only one case will be tried. The indictments were found by a grand jury composed of both political parties, which seems to justify the assumption that the prosecutions are not partisan. I agree with you that a general amnesty should extend to all political offenses except those of the gravest character. R. B. HAYES, President.

This action of the President cannot be too highly estimated for its conciliatory effects upon the people of the section and of the State most concerned. The best results are anticipated from so unexpected and unhoped for a termination of the harrassing suits in question, the successful prosecution of which, moreover, was rendered almost impossible and altogether inexpedient by reason of their very number. A majority perhaps of the persons indicted, in common with others of their class, have of late years come to regard the national government as their natural and merciless enemy. The gracious course adopted by the President will doubtless throw a new and benedictional light into a very dark corner and secure a degree of peace and order alike desirable and necessary to the interest of both races and parties.

Ex-Governor Chamberlain left last night to relain his family, who preceded him to New York several weeks ago.

The Boston Transcript, which assumes a special championship of the "policy" of President Hayes, says the latter is "going accomplish the quieting and dissolution of the solid South, by giving it unhampered control of itself; he is going to accomplish the conquest of the Indians by enlisting, arming and equipping them as United States soldiers: he is going to accomplish the disruption of the opposition political party by letting it have its policy."

If the above represents the "new policy" President Hayes cannot claim to be its inventor but should pay a royalty to John Phœnix who originated the formula: "I held my adversary down on top of the by my nose which I had inserted between his teeth for that purpose."

We copy on our first page from the Geneva, Illinois, Gazette, an interesting reminiscence of the brief but eventful siege of Mobile city and its adjacent defenses, in which the powerful submarine torpedoes set adrift by the rebels caused such terrible havoc in our fleet. Within about one week two iron-clads, four wooden gunboats, two tugs and an army transport were blown up by these unseen but terrific engines of warfare, in the vicinity of the obstructions across the channel approaches to the city. In every case the divers found an immense breach from ten to twenty feet in diameter blown completely through the planking and frames of the bottoms of the vessels, and while some on board were killed by the explosion, in all cases they sank so swiftly that some were carried down with the wreck. We well remember the stormy night when the monitor Milwaukee was sent plunging to the bottom by the explosion of one of these truly "infernal machines," and the Gazette's article brings freshly to mind the sharp hail to the little boat approaching through the darkness, the eager reply, and the reception on board of the two survivors drenched and worn with fatigue, yet most anxious to learn the fate of their comrades. The assignment of the promising young officer was readily secured, and after participating in the final scenes of the Rebellion the personnel of our volunteer Army and Navy melted away into the great ocean of civilian ship across which, after twelve years, a brother editor sends us from Illinois the greeting of a comrade of the West Gulf Squadron.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL

The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle insists that Mr. Jefferson Davis has just as much right to "make a few remarks" as any other man in this country and that he has nothing to repent of.

Speaking of the recent election, a leading Democratic paper in Georgia says: "The cause of the South was dead self-government and anti-centralism. That cause is not dead; it did not die with the Confederacy, it is immortal wherever a freeman dwells, and it cannot die."

The ex-rebel, but possibly to be "conciliated" Ex-Gov. Benjamin G. Humphreys, thinks the present is an propitious time for him to come forward, and he accordingly announces that he has a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Mississippi. The Vicksburg Herald sympathizes with him, and demands of the Democrats that "the vestige of 1876, when he was removed from office, be compensated for by justice in 1877."

The chivalrous Mississippians who shot Judge Chisolm and his companion in the back, in the Kemper County Jail, when they tried to escape their murderous wrath, had not been brave enough to meet them face to face. In the exact words of the Meridian Mercury: "The advantage of his (Chisolm's) position was seen and recognized by the mob, with prudence, and some of the assailants reached their guns around without exposing their persons, and fired around an angle, at random, into a hallway."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution, one of the Ablest Democratic papers in the South, says in reference to the Mississippi outrages: "The local press saw nothing in the recent dastardly butchery to condemn, the local authorities did not think it best to arrest the blood-stained participants, and if Kemper County had been left to itself no one would have been brought to justice for the perpetration of an assault that has horrified the entire country." Some Northern papers have thought it worth while to tell a different story.—N. Y. Times.

ASSESSMENTS ON NATIONAL BANKS.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has issued a circular directing Collectors to see that assessments are hereafter made in accordance with the opinion of the Attorney-General of April 7th, to the effect that no banking house purchased and used for banking purposes, either with part of the authorized capital of a corporation or on the personal funds of a banker, must be deemed capital engaged in that business. That every banking association should be assessed for the entire amount of its capital, less part into Government bonds, and state banker for the capital employed in that business, other than that invested in such bonds. The statute provides such bonds for and guide of assessment, authorizes no further deduction, ascertaining the sum upon which the tax of one-twenty-fourth of one per cent is to be calculated.

It gives notice that all returns for assessments of banks, banking associations and corporations, and of bankers made, will be required to include the entire amount of paid up capital of the bank, association, company or corporation, and the entire capital employed by any private bank or banker in the business of banking. The returns should also state, as a deduction from the capital, the average amount of United States bonds. No other deduction will be allowed.

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTS DECLARED VOID.

Attorney-General Devens has recently made a decision to the effect that the contracts between the Government and the parties in charge of the erection of public buildings were illegal and void, because they extended over a term of years, whereas the appropriations are made for one year only, and the law prohibits the making of contracts binding the Government to pay for services for which there is no appropriation. This work is done under the direction of the Treasury Department, and Secretary Sherman has appointed Assistant Secretary French, Supervising Architect Hill, and Col. Casey, of the Engineer Corps, a commission to examine into the matter and report the legal way of preventing the difficulties which must arise under a strict construction of this decision of the Attorney-General. The works for which contracts have been made for years in advance, and which will be affected by this opinion, and the parties who have the contracts for their completion, are as follows: Cincinnati Custom-house, Bodwell Granite Company, granite and cutting; Chicago Post Office, John H. Mueller, cutting on dimension stone, nearly completed; Hartford Post Office, Mark & St. John, cut granite; Philadelphia Post Office, C. S. Dixon, cut granite for superstructure; St. Louis Custom-house, Hurricane Island Granite Company, cut granite for superstructure.

Fred Douglass delivered a lecture in Baltimore recently in which he gave a free handed and very faithful portraiture of the old slave-holding and slave-trading inhabitants of Washington and the condition of things at the National Capital under the ante-rebellion regime. The ex-rebels and secessionists of that, dilectable place at once set up a howl and commenced circulating petitions for the removal of Douglass from office. They do not understand how any one should be allowed to speak disrespectfully of the slaveocracy under the policy of "conciliation," although it has been quite the fashion for years for all sorts of blackguardies to lampoon and abuse anybody, and everybody: connected with the National Administration. How high a horse the ex-chivalry are trying to ride just now is indicated by the fact that Mr. Douglass delivered his same lecture in Washington two years ago without causing any such hubbub.

THE BLACK HILLS. The Kennebec Journal publishes the following extract from a letter from a Maine man in the Black Hills to his friends:

There are thousands of men coming to the hills from all parts of the country, and what most of them will do is more than I can tell. They seem to be a queer sort of men to mine; they do not strike out, but remain here in Deadwood waiting for something to turn up. There are others here who are making several hundred dollars a day and taking out fortunes. Our life here is very much like camping out on the seashore, only this means work. We shall "light out" of Deadwood as soon as possible, and go for our "pile" little or big. I would advise no one to come out here, unless they are prepared to endure hardships. But they know nothing of—"pilgrims" that come into the hills, and if they know nothing of mining they are in a sad situation. Three quarters of the emigrants have returned the next day. Our party has the advantage of most of the pilgrims, as we all have a knowledge of mining.

A call for a meeting of workingmen who are out of employment is published in another column. It proposes sending a committee to wait on the Mayor, but how that official can afford employment is not suggested.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

"WILL IT BE?" "Loring's Tales of the Dead" are very popular, not only from the fact that they are well written, entertaining, but also because the price, 50 cents, enables one to procure a good novel for a small sum. The story with the above title is a recent issue and it is a bright story of love, jealousy, mistaken kindness and secret. The incidents are laid in New York, Washington, Vicksburg, New Orleans, Mobile and France. Loring Brothers, Publishers. For sale at Chamberlin's.

Sunday Evening, May 20.

GRAND SACRED CONCERT.

Sheppard's Jubilee Singers

A GENUINE SLAVE BAND,

IN

Jubilee Songs.

They are genuine colored people, under the leadership of ANDREW SHEPARD, children born in slavery, the property of Gen. Robert E. Lee, at Arlington, Va., emancipated by Abraham Lincoln's Great Proclamation of Freedom. These supremely religious people sing as children, they being unable to read or write. All having been slaves, they give the truest and best representation of Slave Life on the Old Plantation, singing, sacred songs of the Old Plantation, which for melody and harmony are unsurpassed. Organized by Rev. Father Hawley, City Missionary, Hartford, Conn., where he has labored for over 30 years. Admission 25 and 35 cents. Doors open at 7 o'clock. Concert to commence at 8 o'clock.

Tickets for sale at Bugbee's.

CONCERT.

The Artistes Quartette.

I have the pleasure of announcing to the citizens of Bangor and vicinity, one GRAND CONCERT,

IN NOROMBEGA HALL,

Tuesday, May 22d, 1877,

by the POPULAR ARTISTE QUARTETTE, of Boston, consisting of MRS. O. T. KIMBALL, the accomplished Soprano of King's Chapel, Boston.

MRS. G. H. DAKES, Mrs. Dakes' voice is a rare combination of mezzo-soprano and contralto; now with its wonderful compass, her artistic position can not be galvanized.

MRS. FLORA E. BARRY, is hardly necessary to add anything concerning Mrs. Barry, who is favorably known as a Bangor resident (she is contralto at King's Chapel).

MISS JULIA A. WELLS (Miss Wells is to the Quartette what the sunbeam is to the Organ—possessing a remarkably sweet and powerful voice. She is contralto at Rev. Dr. Waite's Church, Arlington st.

The Quartette will be assisted by

MR. WALTER EMERSON, the young but already famous cornet soloist, and

MR. J. P. WESTON, Accompanist and Musical Director.

The above, although a comparatively new organization, have met with very flattering success in Boston and the West, during the winter just past, and their appearance here should be greeted by a full house.

Tickets at popular prices—Reserved seats, 50 and 75 cts., according to location.

Sale of tickets will commence at 7 o'clock Saturday morning at the Bangor News Depot, No. 2, Kenduskeag Bridge.

THE WAR IN TURKEY.

A REPORTED RUSSIAN DEFEAT.

TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER OF TROOPS

THE PROPOSED PASSAGE OF THE DANUBE.

Object of the attack on Kulafat

LONDON April 14 The Hirald Constantinople correspondent says his statement in official circles that a Turkish vessel built in Pesth has been completed and arrived in the Danube above Kulafat, and the Turks commenced violently to bombard it at that place on the 1st instant Governor after the Turkish government passed round the batteries unharmed An extensive movement of Turkish cavalry is observed from the Roumanian side of the Danube

The Battle of Batoum

The following is special from Batoum, Friday midnight says about 5 o clock A M the Russian forces made a furious attack upon the heights defending Batoum on the land side occupied by Basti Bazouk and Ottoman troops entrenched A terrible fire of cannon and musketry ensued

Bowed the Russians Down in Swaths

They fell by scores and hundreds were slaughtered in the Turkish positions Driven back at the point of the bayonet they again rallied the fire, but only to be Turkish horse at full gallop taking advantage of the thick forest broke forth on the flanks of the Russian column and effected great slaughter The Muscovites being upon ground perfectly open and having no place but to fight or fly In a short time the ground was covered with dying Russians the army quickly brought up and in spite of all the battle was received with such determination for many hours the efforts of the assailants were powerfully aided but towards night the Turkish artillery fire gradually slackened until they totally withdrew

The Grand Duke's Staff

Grand Duke Nicholas and all his staff of staff officials left Kutais on Friday morning and arrived at Jaymoda the afternoon and will proceed to Tiflis by rail Officials at the headquarters of the staff at Tiflis on the Danube Tuesday

Serious Rise of Water

Owing to the flood of water in the Danube the Turkish fleeing monitors opposite Turnu Magurele abandoned their station throwing out a new branch above Rahovitza which is completely blockaded the city and swept away 200 houses in the village of Kamchik

The Plan for Crossing the Danube

Scattering the Turkish Forces

The Times Berlin despatch says the 7th and 8th Russian corps which on the way to Kulafat were suddenly ordered westward from Pelishat upon Gorgevo and Furnia in order to wave the northern bank of the Danube between the mouth of the Alutta and Rustschuk, will probably be coupled by 60 000 men Fresh batteries are building constructed at Sistova somewhat north of Tirnoff near the mouth of the Sistova It is clear that the Russians are either preparing to cross the Danube simultaneously at several points or will to make the Turks believe so The Turks are thus compelled to distribute their forces over a large area and being manifestly weaker than the Russians cannot but be seriously injured by this necessity

The Manchester Guardian's Despatch says three columns of Russian soldiers are marching towards Gourgevo Sumnitza and Maurelia with a probable design of crossing the Danube at those points One object of the Russians is to cut the Turkish line and separate the corps at Widdin from the main army The Turks appear confident of a victory and at Kulafat they have at that place two monitors one steamer and eight sailing barges

GREAT BRITAIN

The English View of Egypt's Position in the Eastern War

LONDON, May 14 In the House of Commons to-day Bourke under Secretary of the Foreign Department, in reply to a question by Harcourt, said that immediately after the outbreak of war the Government learned that an iron-clad built for Turkey lying at Victoria docks and took steps to prevent the infringement of foreign enlistment act. Sir Stafford Northcote, Chancellor of the Exchequer said Egypt forming a part of Turkey is certainly at war with Russia Russia therefore has a right to blockade Egyptian ports and in view Egyptian territory and goods going to Egypt may be considered contraband

Gladstone's Resolutions Rejected and Wolff's Amendment Adopted

In the House of Commons Mr. Gladstone's resolutions were rejected—304 to 223—and the amendment offered by Sir Henry Wolff to the effect that the House declines to entertain any resolution which may embarrass the Government in its maintenance of peace and the protection of British interest without indicating any alternative line of policy was adopted without division

CONDENSED DESPATCHES

It is thought in official circles that undue importance is attached to the reports of a filibustering expedition to invade northern Mexico, as our government will enforce the neutrality laws with regard to Mexico as to any other power with which we are at peace.

The World says that Blaine and Hayes had a protracted interview Saturday on the latter's Southern policy. Blaine did not express himself an avowed opinion as to that policy, but did not share the belief of the President's advisers that it will divide the Southern Democratic party He thinks that it will only consolidate the Southern Democrats and obliterate the Southern Republican party.

THE ARTISTES' QUARTETTE As will be seen by reference to another column this quartette composed of Mesdames O T Kimball G H Oakes Flora L Barry and Miss Julia A Wells are to give a concert in this city on Tuesday evening of next week Of the musical attainments of the ladies the Boston papers all speak in the highest terms and the concert will prove, we have no doubt, one which will not only draw, but will also delight a large audience.

Mr Gough will lecture at Augusta on Thursday evening the 17th and will arrive here on Friday morning and on Saturday morning will start for St. John N B and Halifax, from which cities he has received flattering and liberal offers In fact he is entirely owing to these generous offers that he has come East, and otherwise we should not have had the pleasure of hearing him in this city. The lecture here on Friday evening will be his only lecture here probably for years

REMOVAL OF DR BLAISDELL AND FAMILY. An item in yesterdays issue noticed the departure of Dr. J M Blaisdell and his family for a new home in Illinois. Dr. Blaisdell originally went from this State to Illinois, settling at Galesburg, from whence he came to this city with his family twelve years ago During that period he has been actively engaged as a Homœopathic physician and acquired an extensive practice among the families of our city favoring that system. In 1873 he built an elegant residence on First street which he occupied until his determination to return to Illinois, where a brother is also located as a prominent physician. Two of his daughters have been at Quincy in that State for some months, where Miss Nellie has met great success as a musician, and the Doctor proposes to settle in that flourishing city in the practice of medicine. The family will carry with them the kind remembrance of a large circle of friends, who do best wishes for their prosperity in their new home

CHANGE OF PLACE The regular weekly business and prayer meetings of the Women's Christian Temperance Union which has hitherto been held in the Union Street Church, will be held this afternoon and succeeding Tuesdays in the chapel of the First Baptist Church on Harlow street, a central location which will accommodate many ladies who have heretofore been unable to attend. The prayer meeting at four o clock is open to all, and all interested in Temperance will be cordially welcomed.

THE AMERICAN HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY, Rev. H M. Storrs, D D, Secretary of the A. H M. Society New York, Rev. J M Warren, D. D, Superintendent of California, and Rev. L H Cobb Superintendent of Minnesota, will be in the city next Sabbath. The object of their visit is to hold up the great and good work of Christianizing our whole land, from sea to sea in all its parts They will speak of the claims, the progress and the ultimate results of that work hoping to intensify and deepen the feeling that this must be done without delay and at any cost or sacrifice They will occupy the First church, the Hammond street and the Central church pulpits in the morning There will be a union Sunday School gathering at the Hammond street church in the afternoon and in the evening there will be a meeting at the Central church.
